

Inna Firsova is a young pianist who is quickly gaining the attention of audiences and the press for her solo performances as well as for her concerts with violinist Aleksey Semenenko, including debuts in New York, at the Kennedy Center, and at the Wigmore Hall.

During 2019, Inna Firsova's busy performance calendar will include concerts throughout Europe and the United States. Notably, she performed Rachmaninoff's Third Piano Concerto with the Warsaw Symphony.

Winner of numerous prizes, beginning with her prize at the "Zolotyj Leleka" International Piano Competition in Ukraine at age 12, Ms. Firsova continued on to win the "Vivat Musica" International Competition for Young Pianists. She was further distinguished by receiving 1st prizes at chamber music competitions in Germany, as well as by receiving a "Yehudi Menuhin/Live Music Now Rhein-Ruhr" Association scholarship award.

In 2015 Ms. Firsova won the competition of Dorcken Stiftung/Herdecke, which resulted in a series of fifteen solo concerts in Germany.

Inna Firsova and violinist Aleksey Semenenko have given numerous duo-concerts throughout the United States and Europe. Their recitals have included performances at the Morgan Library & Museum, the Buffalo Chamber Music Society, and the Embassy Series, as well as at the Berlin Philharmonie, Usedom Music Festival, Mecklenburg-Vorpommern Festspiele, Bonn Beethoven House, and at the International Summer Academy in Cervo.

At the 67th Dubrovnik Festival in 2016, the Duo Semenenko-Firsova was presented with the Jury Prize as well as the 2016 Orlando Award for the Best Achievement in music.

Ms. Firsova was born in Russia and started her piano lessons with Svetlana Korzhova in Ukraine. She continued her studies with Grigory Gruzman in Germany and graduated with high honors from the Folkwang University of Arts, where she also won First Prize at the University's concerto competition.
